Paul , who wants to become a journalist , interviewed Liz yesterday for an article for his school magazine . Its headline will be : " The Making of a Champion . "

First he asked her about her family and her youth . She told him that she had nine brothers and that her father , who was an engineer , died five years ago . She added that her mother was a housewife with all those children to look after !

Then she changed the subject and gave Paul a surprising piece of information about her first swimming lesson .

After that she told him that she joined the national team at the age of fourteen and finally she said she often travels around the world to compete in swimming championships .

Paul was very excited when he heard that Australia was one of the countries Liz knew , but he was soon disappointed because she told him she only saw hotels , airports and swimming-pools !

Tunis is a very nice city and the weather is the same as in Algiers. People are quite all right. We are accommodated on a university campus and I have met students and athletes from different countries. Some of them have invited me to go to their countries with them. It's great! Tomorrow the first competition will start and I am a little bit worried and stressed. But I am training hard to get a medal. Bye for now, Ali - Format 1pt.
